The Committee also find that the bills due the town as per report of last year, amounting to $ 56.48 have been omitted to be charged to the Overseers in their present account consequently said sum of $ 643,70 should be further increased by the addition of $56,48 making the true and actual expense of supporting the Town Paupers the past year $ 782,88.

The amount before stated of $ 453,46 as paid for labor, grain, goods &c

REPORT

OF THE

Superintending School Committee of

RINDGE, N. H.,

For the Year ending March 1852.

THE Committee appointed to superintend the Common Schools for the past year, submit the following Report :

THE Superintending Committee entered upon the duties of their office at the commencement of the year, with the intention of being faithful and thorough, not only in the examination of teachers, but in every department of their work. The success which has attended our efforts, perhaps will favorably compare with that of committees in former years. We have given certificates to none whose abilities we doubted as being sufficient for the proper management and instruction of the schools which they were employed to teach. If however, we have been unfortunate in some instances, we feel confident that the teachers as a class have been competent to their work, and have devoted themselves with a commendable zeal to the duties of their station. Both the summer and winter terms of all the schools progressed and closed with perhaps as few complaints in regard to teachers as in any previous year; yet these are never wholly to be avoided. They often result from not knowing, or being able to appreciate the cares, anxieties and labors of a faithful and conscientious teacher. Many are disposed to complain when no cause of complaint would appear, if they had a correct knowledge of what they ought to expect of a teacher.— There are many in our schools who have never been governed at home, and consequently are unwilling to submit to the rules of order in school. The teacher perhaps administers correction, which results on the part of the child in complaints of severity. The parents, instead of enforcing the necessity of obedience, join in the complaints and report the teacher as being cruel, and therefore unfit for his station — such complaints have no foundation in reason or justice ; yet are as numerous as any other class.

The condition of school houses, nearly the same as last year.— Some good and commodious, others tolerable, and others still, unfit for use. A few of these answer well the description given by Gen. Oliver. "Lame apology, the location a rude wilderness of a spot, upon which the farmer, who once owned it, would not put his hen-coop or his pigsty, and so sold it to the school district. And years have passed by, and now the rain, the winds, the snows and the boys,—those wasteful elements of destruction, have all fulfilled their several missions, and it has become a shaky shanty." Such is the state of quite to many of the houses where our children are taught the elements of usefulness; though of a less number, perhaps, than of former years.

Agreeably to a recommendation of the State Board of Education, your committee have recommended, and secured to all the schools in this town, except District No. 5,—a new and uniform series of reading books; by which we believe much difficulty and expense which heretofore existed in consequence of too great a variety of books, will be greatly obviated.

Your committee believe that there is yet too little interest taken in the common schools by the citizens generally, although we are happy to see that it is on the increase.

Increase it should; till all shall come to see and feel their high responsibilities, and to make united efforts to raise these nurseries of the sciences to their appropriate place in the scale of great and sacred institutions.

The statistics required by law, we give in the following order:

DISTRICT No. 1.

Summer Term, Miss Susan Perry, Teacher. This school was visited some time after the commencement. The teacher was manifestly doing the best she could for her pupils; which only numbered eight or nine. There seemed to be good order, and a disposition on the part of the pupils to obey cheerfully. The teacher was commencing the elementary branches with a tolerable degree of thoroughness. The term closed with a fair examination.

Winter Term, Mr. Stephen A. Adams, of Jaffrey, Teacher. The teacher was a very young man. This was his first effort in teaching; his school however, appeared well for the number of scholars; the school being much too small in the opinion of the committee, to progress to the greatest advantage.

Prudential Committee, Charles Keyes.

DISTRICT No. 2.

Summer Term, Miss S. A. Howe, Teacher. This school was visited at the commencement and close. The teacher evidently labored hard to make the school interesting and profitable to the scholars, and the appearance at the close was very fair; better than was anticipated at the commencement, as there was a degree of thoroughness, which was unexpected from the appearance at the beginning.

Winter Term, Mr. Heald, Teacher. He appeared here for the first time in this vocation. The examination at the close of the school proved a considerable degree of advancement in the branches taught. In grammar, owing to a change of books during the term, the scholars did not seem so much at home as could be desired.—In reading the first class improved very much. The order of the school was commendable.

Prudential committee Charles Cutler.

DISTRICT No. 3.

Summer Term. Miss Mary Perry, Teacher. The same who taught it the previous year. At the commencement, the teacher appeared to have laid out her plans, in many respects, very judiciously. The school wants much training in the elementary portions of all the branches taught. At the close of the term, the order was good, the recitations accurate and prompt.

The scholars were wanting in earnestness of mind,—in exactness as to their positions and manners,—loudness of voice and distinctness of utterance,—faults by no means confined to this school.

Winter Term, Mr. George W Taylor of New Ipswich, Teacher.—At the commencement of the term, the school seemed very deficient in the knowledge of the elementary parts of all the branches. The spelling was very imperfect. The teacher labored with commendable zeal, and evinced much patience and great good nature, to improve his pupils. Examination showed some success.

Prudential committee, George E. Smith.

DISTRICT No 4,

Summer Term Miss Mary A. Adams, of Fitzwilliam, Teacher.—The teacher showed ability in governing, and aptness in teaching; but was unfortunately obliged to close the school prematurely on account of sickness. There was no examination.

The Winter Term was kept by Miss Mary B. Alexander of Fitzwilliam,—an experienced and efficient teacher. This term was also interrupted by sickness but at the close presented very fair results. Examination good,—teacher, prompt and full of energy,—pupils, cheerful and obedient. The school house is one which makes hard work for the teacher, harder still for the children and hardest of all for the district to sustain its reputation.

Prudential Committee, Gilman Bowers.

DISTRICT No. 5.

Summer Term, Miss E. Smith, Teacher. Great thoroughness, accuracy and promptness,—much neatness in the appearance of the scholars,—examination good, attended with excellent singing. The teacher managed with ability and success without bustle or parade.

Winter Term, Mr. I. K. Wellman Jr. of Cornish, Teacher. This teacher evidently possessed most of the qualifications of a good one, but might be wanting in energy. Kind and gentle in his deportment to all, he doubtless aimed to be faithful in all the duties of his station. At the examination the school presented its characteristic appearance of neatness, but not the same degree of promptness and orderly behaviour as at the close of the summer term. This was no fault of the teacher.

DISTRICT No. 6.

Summer Term, Miss Mary P. Thomas, Teacher. She evidently devoted herself sincerely to duties of her station, and had put forth every reasonable effort for the benefit of the school. The committee was pained to witness in some of the pupils much indifference and heedlessness both in regard to their studies and behaviour. The small scholars appeared to better advantage according to their age than the larger ones.

Winter Term, Mr. Samuel Burnham, Teacher. This was his first school; but the improvement of the scholars under his instruction was of such a character as to give general satisfaction. The examination was attended by the committee, together with a large number of citizens, who were highly gratified with the manner in which it was conducted, both by teacher and pupils.

Prudential Committee, Samuel Page.

DISTRICT No. 7.

Summer Term, Miss E. Perry, Teacher. The school was found at the commencement in an encouraging state, yet the great number of classes in so small a school was quite a hinderance. The examination at the close passed off well. School pleasantly situated and well ordered. Teacher in a good degree active and judicious. Pupils cheerful and obedient and had made progress.

Winter Term, Miss Mary Perry, Teacher. The same disadvantages as in summer. Too many classes,—especially in Arithmetic and Geography. At the close the school appeared to very good advantage. The teacher conducted the examination with propriety, and the results were very satisfactory.

Prudential Committee, Asahel Marble.

DISTRICT No. 8.

Summer Term, Miss C. A. Brooks, Teacher. The method of the teacher was good. She was exact, faithful and pleasant.— Considering the age of the pupils, they presented very fair results. Recitations were well performed.

Winter Term, Mr. Warren Stowe, Teacher, If the teacher here was wanting in energy, and was moderate in his movements, he is above the average of his fellow teachers in general intelligence and mental cultivation.

Exceedingly gentle in his manners, of blameless character, he conscientiously aimed to be faithful to his trust. The age of a large portion of the pupils is such, from six to twelve years, as to render it difficult for a teacher to bring out any striking results to the view of visitors. The school did not appear so well at the close, as in some former years; but the fault is by no means wholly to be laid at the door of the teacher.

Prudential Committee, H. Rice.

DISTRICT, No. 9.

Summer & Winter Terms, Miss S. R. Bennett, Teacher. This was her first school; yet the improvement of the pupils under her instruction was such as gave general satisfaction. The school is favorably situated,—a pleasant and commodious house,—pupils cheerful and orderly.

The examination at the close of both terms, was conducted with ability on the part of the teacher, and passed off with interest and satisfaction to all present.

Summer Term, Miss R. S. Robbins, Teacher. Her ability as a good teacher is not doubted by those who know her. This school is small yet it presents several specimens of good scholarship. In point of order it is not surpassed by any in town. It made good progress during the term, and closed with a fine examination.

Winter Term, Miss E. R. Stone, of Marlboro, Teacher. This teacher has had experience in school-keeping, and is diligent and efficient in every department of her work. The term was interrupted by sickness,—but finally closed with a good and well conducted examination.

DISTRICT No. 12.

Summer & Winter Term, Miss. E. J. Lawrence, of Jaffrey, Teacher. The school is small and afflicted with a very bad house. It has served two if not three generations. At the examination one of the visitors said that he knew persons sixty years old who learned their "a, b, c's" in that house. However the teacher and pupils had done well. Teacher kind,—prompt,—earnest. Pupils pleasant,—diligent in study,—well behaved. The summer term was closed and examined July 4th. a very suitable way to celebrate that independence for which the common school did so much to prepare the way, and are doing so much to preserve and perpetuate.

Prudential Committee, Dexter Jewell.
